Exporting. While it makes money for you, it makes jobs for Americans.

If you're looking for a way to keep sales — and employment — up, why not look into exporting? There's probably no more profitable way to stimulate employment. Because with U.S. products highly competitive in world markets, exporting is a money-making proposition. Learn how the U.S. Commerce Department can help you get your share of this $95 billion a year business. For more information write: Rogers C. B. Morton, Secretary of Commerce, U.S. Department of Commerce, BIC 4B, Washington, D.C. 20230.
